'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Summer is almost upon us again.

As a result, one can expect to see about a score of aviators in search of fame and publicity hop off from Old Orchard, Me., and head out to sea.

Newspapers will scream in headlines: "Daring Flier Hops Off For Paris."

And a few days later: "All Hope Abandoned for Missing Atlantic Flier."

This business of flying over the Atlantic is a bit overstressed—but Lindbergh set the style.

More than half of America believes that Lindy was the first man to make a non-stop flight across the Atlantic.

But, believe it or not—he wasn't.

Try and remember who was the first flier, or fliers, to do this. No, we won't tell you.

Bobby Jones is on his way to get another British championship for the royal and ancient game.

Not so many years ago it was the custom of British golfers to come to the United States and beat every champion we had.

But today it is the custom of the American golfers to go to England and return with the English championships.

All honor is due the gentleman from Atlanta.

Bobby is always in the game and he's always fighting to the last hole.

Perhaps the story of Bobby Jones has done more than anything else to make golf as popular as it is.

No matter where you go, or how you go, you will find golf links scattered all over the world.

Tourists demand that they have their golf with their picture galleries—and they get it.

To hear a modern traveler speak of his experiences and adventures abroad is like sitting down at the nineteenth tee after a hard game.

Minor Funeral To Be Held Today

With Rev. Primus Bennett of the First Christian church officiating, funeral services for Betty Jane Minor, nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Minor of San Pablo Dam road, will be held from the Wilson and Kratzer funeral chapel at 2:30 this afternoon. Interment will follow in Sunset View cemetery.

The young girl, a student at the Lincoln school, died suddenly after a short illness.

YESTERDAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE—

Foreign relations committee and naval affairs committee continued hearings on rivers and harbors bill. Chairman Smoot of tariff committee proposed the senate yield on debenture and flexible tariff provisions.

Passed a measure providing for creation of two new federal penal institutions.

Passed the naval appropriation bill carrying more than $382,000,000 for construction and maintenance of the navy.

Passed the Ketchikan bill which provides for establishment of a foreign service for the agriculture department.

LEGION POST TO MOBOLIZE

In conjunction with the Red Cross general disaster mobilization this afternoon, Richmond Post of the American Legion will hold a disaster mobilization.

Some time during the day the Santa Fe whistle will blow the disaster signal, and members of the local Legion will report either in person or by telephone to the Memorial hall, W. W. St. John, post commander of the Legion will have charge of the registration at the Memorial hall, and other members of the committee will be stationed at private telephones to report the call to members who do not hear the Santa Fe whistle.

Commander Lowell R. Sears urges that every member of the Legion report at the earliest possible moment and cooperate with the local Red Cross.

The Legion committee includes W. W. St. John, S. S. Ripley, G. W. Wilson, John E. Smalley, G. C. Sclafsen and L. R. Sears.

Two Building Permits Issued

Two building permits were issued by City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley yesterday.

William Gideon received permission to build a laundry room addition to his home at Seventeenth street between Roosevelt and Pennsylvania avenues at a cost of $75. Tandy and Theis will do the work.

D. W. Lucas will build a woodshed on Seventh street between the Santa Fe railroad and Chanslor avenue at cost of $50.

Auto Strikes, Injures Man

Lacerations of the hand and left cheek were sustained last night by a man, whose name was not learned, by police, when he was struck down by a machine driven by Mrs. Ella Zuver, 634 Twenty-fifth street. The man was walking across Twenty-fifth street, when the Zuver machine turned north on Twenty-fifth street from Macdonald avenue and knocked him to the pavement.

Mrs. Zuver took him to be treated by Dr. G. M. Bumgarner and then to his home on Bissell avenue. Mrs. Zuver, who reported the accident to the police, failed to learn the injured man's name.

OFFICIALS TO REVIEW FORCE

About 26 stalwart members of the Richmond police department, attired in their best dress uniforms, will parade before city dignitaries and officials at the annual police inspection at the Roosevelt junior high school grounds this afternoon.

The inspection will begin at two o'clock, and will be witnessed by all city and police officials, headed by Mayor A. L. Paulsen, City Manager James A. McVittie, Chief of Police Dan Cox and Capt. L. E. Jones. Chief Cox will be in charge of the review.

Condition of uniforms and equipment will mark the first phase of the inspection, and will be followed by a military drill.

The force has been going through close order drill, and expects to present an exhibition that can be rivaled by none.

The force now numbers 31 men which includes the traffic patrolmen. These members of the department will also be on hand for the review.

Basing an estimate on last year's crowd that attended the inspection, a large number of local citizens are expected today, to see what a first class police force Richmond has.

PRE-SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS OPENED IN RICHMOND

Children of pre-school age of the Kensington school district were examined yesterday by Dr. Mahel Bennett, Berkeley, and all of prospective first-graders were found to be satisfactory.

The examinations are a part of a state-wide movement which is held each year. The P. T. A. of Richmond is in charge of the examinations here, headed by Mrs. Gunner Soderblom, and assisted by the faculty of the schools and Miss Helen Willis, school nurse.

Mothers accompanying their children to the school expressed great interest in the tests.

Miss Willis, in commenting on the tests, declared they were very valuable in aiding the health of Richmond's youth.

"Parents, whose children are about to enter school for the first time," Miss Willis said, "should ask themselves a number of questions like the following:

"Is my child physically fit to enter school?"

"Has he any defects, and if so, how serious are they?"

"Is he growing?"

"Are his height and weight proper for a child of his age?"

"Does he stand correctly or does he droop?"

"Is his gait proper or does he limp?"

"Are his eyes all right, and can he hear well?"

"Is his skin clear?"

"Does he breathe through his nose?"

"Has he good, sound teeth?"

"Is his throat in good condition; are his tonsils swollen or diseased?"

"Is his back strong?"

"Has he flat feet?"

"Does he eat the foods that will make him grow?"

"Only a competent examiner can answer these questions," she said.

"And the California Congress of Parents and Teachers in cooperation with the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the California State Department of Public Health will conduct examinations in this community free of cost, where parents may obtain answers to these important questions. Every parent should know whether or not his child is suffering from any physical defects and steps should be taken for the correction of any such defect before the child enters school next fall."

It was announced at a meeting of the Council of Religious Education last night, that the First Baptist church, that the vacation Bible school in Richmond would open June 9, the Monday after the close of the city public schools.

E. C. Harlow, chairman of the council, presided at the meeting, during which Rev. Harry Kearns of the San Pablo Baptist church was elected dean of the school.

He announced that beginning next Tuesday between 1 and 3 p. m., a class of instruction for the teachers of the school would be held. The teachers will be chosen next week by a committee consisting of Rev. A. A. Pratt, Rev. C. G. Lindemann, Rev. F. H. Prince and Rev. K. B. Wallace.

Talks and ideas on how to conduct the school were made at the meeting last night, and included a talk on "How to Conduct Music in the Daily Bible School," by C. M. Bish, of Stege; a talk on "How to Teach Memory Work," by Mrs. Harry Kearns, and a talk on "How to Teach Craft Work" by Mrs. Mignno De Sanno.

Ernest Emmrich is chairman of the day for the meeting, which will be held in the Hotel Carquinez.

Maun, on his first trip to America a short time ago, brought the pictures to Oakland to show members of his firm. While in California, Maun consented to Semple making a copy of the picture.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS TO LEAVE

Confirmation from Washington D. C. must reach here before May 22, if the Richmond and El Cerrito Gold Star mothers, who are planning to go to France to visit the graves of their sons, are to arrive in New York in time to sail on the steamship President Roosevelt, according to Geo. Sanderson, service man for the American Legion.

The boat will leave New York harbor on May 23 and allowing the Gold Star mothers 48 hours stopover after their long trip across the continent, as outlined by the government, the time will be exceedingly limited. The liner Roosevelt will land in Harve, France and the mothers will be taken by car to the graves of their sons.

Those who will make the trip are Mrs. Isabelle Nesbitt, Mrs. Hanna Bevier and Mrs. Essie Garvin of Richmond, and Mrs. Lucille Redding and Mrs. Kate Hage of El Cerrito.

A party of 23nd Gold star mothers arrived yesterday at Cherrbourg, France on the steamship America, according to press dispatches. The ship was escorted to the port by two French military planes and the party was welcomed enthusiastically at the dock. The mothers arrived in excellent health, and after listening to several short addresses, were taken to Paris, where another reception awaited them.

EMMA MEYER WINS MUSIC SCHOLARSHIP AT CONCLAVE

Miss Emma Meyer, talented local pianist, was yesterday awarded a $500 scholarship loan by the California Federation of Women's club junior division. The money will be used for a further study of music.

Miss Meyer is the sister of Miss Matilda Meyer, local dancing teacher, and has been quite noted for her piano playing.

She is a student of Mrs. Vera Wyatt Fraser, local piano teacher. Fund Provided

The junior division of the federation has provided a fund of $1,000 for music study. One half of the fund was given to Miss Meyer and the other $500 was presented to Miss Lois Elliott of Los Angeles.

Miss Meyer is a member of the Junior Club Mendocino.

At the convention in Oakland yesterday, Mrs. S. S. Ripley, of Richmond, president of the Alameda district, was one of the speakers. Her address was entitled "Today."

The convention voted that Mrs. Ripley's speech was one of the finest presented at the convention, which closes today.

Mrs. Ripley said in part:

"The words 'AND SO TODAY' force us to a consideration of time. To say 'today' we must emphasize the present in contrast with yesterdays and tomorrows and to say 'and so today' prefaces conclusions as to how today differs from yesterday as well as leading us to wonder when the future will be."

With what yesterdays shall we contrast today? Not with those too near to have but little difference from today, nor with those too remote to wonder when the future will be."

War Veterans Hold Meeting

In the absence of Commander Thomas Nee, vice commander George Stuffer presided over last night's meeting of the United Spanish War Veterans in Memorial hall.

LIONS DEFEAT S. O. NINE IN LOOP

The Lions nine defeated the Standard Oil by a score of six to four yesterday afternoon in the city twilight league.

The Lions started the scoring in the fourth inning with one run, Prolo crossing the platter. The team scored two more runs in the fifth inning, and three in the sixth.

The Standard Oil team started a determined drive in the sixth inning, but the rally was cut short after they had scored four runs.

Lemon was on the mound for the Lions, while Wickesser hurried for the Standard Oil team. Lemon allowed the Standard Oil team eight hits, while the Lions gathered in nine hits.

ANGELS TAKE FIRST FROM OAKLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—UP—Two men were out and two on base in the last of the ninth inning when Aaron Ward, Sacramento second baseman, hit a home run today to regain for the Senators undisputed leadership of the Pacific Coast league.

The score had been tied until Ward's circuit clout and the Senators won, 4 to 1.

The Los Angeles Angels crowded Oakland back into third place when they beat the Oaks, 6 to 2. Jacobs double with the bases full was followed by Harper's single to score four runs for the Angels in the fifth inning.

Hollywood trounced Seattle, 20 to 10, three of the 39 hits of the game being home runs.

The Missions beat Portland, 8 to 5, stopping an eighth inning rally after the Beaver scored five runs.

Walker Cup Team Beats Britishers

SANDWICH, Eng., May 16.—UP—By the smashing margin of ten matches to two, the United States continued its string of unbroken triumphs over England in Walker cup competition, winning all but one of the singles matches today.

Winning three out of four of yesterday's Scotch foursomes and seven out of eight singles matches today, the United States players administered the most crushing defeat ever dealt to Britons on English soil in the international amateur team matches. In the two previous matches played in England, the United States won by a margin of one point.

Don Moe, 20 year old Portland, Ore. youth, competing in international competition abroad for the first time, was the hero of the sixth consecutive American victory in the Walker cup series, which was first started in 1922. Eng'and has never won the trophy.

Four down at the end of the first 18 holes, young Moe, a big strapping westerner, lost the first three holes in the afternoon round and was seven down with 15 holes to play in his match against J. A. Stout.

Then the Oregon youth started shooting; he won seven out of the next nine holes; halved the other two, and secured the match on the 20th green. He won the next hole to take the lead, 1 up, for the first time since the first hole of the morning round.

Moe lost the lead again on the 33rd hole, and they were all even until the final hole, where the American youth shot a birdie three to win the match, 1 up, after one of the most courageous uphill battles in the history of Walker cup play. Moe's dazzling shooting on the afternoon round, smashed the course record of 68, and was five under par with 33-34-67.

Bridge Opponents Denied Hearing

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—UP—Local proponents of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway project won a point today.

A proposed rehearing of arguments of those opposing the bridge was indefinitely postponed.

The postponement was announced by Lieut. Col. Thomas M. Robins, who received word to that effect from Major General Lytle Brown, chief of the Army Engineering staff, at Washington.

The hearing was to have been held shortly before a board of war department engineers, including Lieut. Col. Robins, Pacific division engineer.

It is thought now that the local engineering board will check the plans for the bridges, and then will forward them to Washington for approval or rejection, before a rehearing will be considered.

Supporters of the bridge declare a rehearing was only an unnecessary delay, since the plans had been approved by the War Department in 1924.

HURLEY WILL PLAY IN NET MATCHES

Jimmy Hurley of the Richmond Union high school tennis team will compete in the northern division finals of the California Interscholastic Federation tennis finals today at the Berkeley Tennis club courts.

Hurley won the right to represent the eastbay district in today's tournament by winning the championship of the Alameda County Athletic league last Saturday at Berkeley. Hurley represented Richmond in division one competition.

In the other rankings in last Saturday's tourney, Carlin, Vila, and Sutton gained victories in the league finals.

Hurley is known as one of the fastest racket wielders this side of the bay, and he will probably stand a good chance against competition from other parts of northern California today.

Washington In Lead Of American League With Win

By UNITED PRESS
Washington's Senators took undisputed possession of first place in the American league Friday, defeating the Philadelphia Athletics in both games of a double header.

Bump Hadley pitched steady ball to score the first victory, 5 to 3. St. Louis held the champions to three hits in the nightcap, winning, 4 to 0.

Sweeney's double to center with two out in the ninth inning scored Scarritt and gave the Boston Red Sox a 5 to 4 victory over the New York Yankees.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

A four run rally in the ninth inning enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 9 to 8. The victory was the ninth in a row for the Cards, the longest major league winning streak of the season. Doubt's single scored the final two runs of the game.

Brooklyn pounded Lucas and Kolp for 16 hits and defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 10 to 3. Frederick led the attack with three doubles.

Glenna Collett Defeated By 19 Year Old Player

FORMBY, England, May 16.—UP—The British women's golf championship is not coming to the United States, after all, because Glenna Collett's fourth attempt to win the title ended in defeat today when Diana Fishwick, slender 19 year-old English girl, triumphed 4 and 3 over the American champion in the 36-hole final.

Never once during the match did Miss Collett play the kind of golf that carried her past Molly Gourlay, former British champion, and husky Edna Wilson, two of tournament's outstanding players, into the final round for the second straight year.

Miss Collett won the first hole with a par 4, but lost the second hole and never thereafter was she ahead. The golden-haired English girl who smiled at the end of each hole whether she won or lost, finished the first nine, 1 up, and increased her lead to 5 up at the finish of the morning round of 18 holes.

Glenna's putter which had figured prominently in her march to the final, failed her repeatedly during the morning round. Five times Miss Collett used three putts on a green during the afternoon round, Miss Collett was unable to make any gain against the machine-like play of her rival and the first nine holes ended with Miss Fishwick holding her 5 up lead.

On the homeward journey, the American champion picked up two holes—No. 10 and No. 14—reducing her opponent's lead to 3 up, but the match ended on the fifteenth green when Glenna failed to sink a 4 yard putt and took a 6 to Diana's 5.

YOUNG CORBETT WINS BY KAYO

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—UP—With two hard rights to the body, Young Corbett III of Fresno who will meet Young Jack Thompson, now welterweight champion, in a title bout at Detroit in August, knocked out Andy Divodi of Brooklyn, N. Y., in the sixth round of a scheduled ten round bout here tonight.

More than 13,000 fans, the largest crowd ever assembled in Dreamland auditorium here, despite an increase in prices, saw Divodi stagger Corbett twice in the second round and watched the challenger recover rapidly to floor his opponent in the sixth.

Corbett weighed 147 1-2 Divodi 143 1-4.

The first round was even. Early in the second Corbett took a hard right on the jaw and fell back against the ropes. He bounced back to land one in Divodi's mid-section and took another dynamite punch on the jaw in return.

The third was even but Corbett had an edge on the fourth and fifth, his body punches noticeably weakening the New Yorker in the latter frame.

I. O. O. F. Nine, Guardsmen To Play Sunday

With Johnny Babich doing the pitching, the Richmond Odd Fellows baseball team will meet the Battery B of the National Guard Sunday. Babich has established himself as one of the best hurlers on local teams. Gualdoni will do the catching.

The game will be at the San Pablo diamond starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Y. M. I. NINE TO MEET OAKLAND EAGLES

Determined to replace their two lost games of the present season, the Burke Y. M. I. of Richmond will journey to Oakland tomorrow to tangle with the Oakland Eagles. The contest will start at 2:40 o'clock on the Dushrod Park diamond.

As the Oak'and Eagles were close contenders for the Oakland Winter league title this year, the local Y. M. I. boys may expect a difficult tussle tomorrow afternoon.

Pauli will commence the chucking for the local aggregation, with Morrison receiving.

The Burke Y. M. I. was originally scheduled to play against the Berkeley Y. M. I. tomorrow but due to a mix-up in the schedule, the game has been postponed until May 25.

ELK GOLFERS TO HOLD BANQUET

At the conclusion of the Elks golf tournament, a banquet in the club rooms will be held, at which awards for the flight winners will be presented.

The committee in charge of the festivities was appointed by Exalted Ruler Frank Wilson as follows: A. A. Alstrom, Ed Hoffman and T. A. Dugan.

The trophies for this year's tournament will be silver table service, as trays and percolators. They are now on display in clubrooms, and each of the six flight winners will receive an award.

The best match of the tournament was played when H. W. Creeger and Robert T. Osborn captured low gross and low net respectively. Osborn played under a 21 handicap. The match was so closely contested that it was necessary to play 22 holes to decide the winner.

Wolgast Defeats Willie LaMorte

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, May 16.—UP—Midwest Wolgast of Philadelphia, recognized as flyweight champion by the New York State and Pennsylvania State Athletic commissions, scored a technical knockout over Willie LaMorte of Newark at the end of the fifth round, of a scheduled 15 round title bout here tonight. Wolgast weighed 110 1-2, LaMorte 112.

LaMorte collapsed as he started for his corner at the close of the fifth round and was unable to continue. He presented a strange sight as his legs buckled under him and he fell to the canvas with his head and arms twitching, apparently in a semi-coma.

There were no knockdowns up to the end, but Wolgast won each of the five rounds, swarming all over LaMorte.

Trojans Favored In Track Meet

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, May 16.—UP—The University of Southern California's track and field team will be favored when the California intercollegiate opens here Saturday.

Other competitors will be University of California; University of California at Los Angeles and Stanford.

The feature will be the fight between Frank Wykoff of U. S. C. and Hec Dyer of Stanford in the sprints.

Y TRACK MEN TO STAGE MEET

Track athletes of the Richmond Y. M. C. A. will participate in the annual California track meet at the Berkeley high school field today. The meet is scheduled to start at one o'clock.

More than twenty local boys are expected to run, jump and throw in today's track event. Many of the Richmond boys were selected at try-outs held at the Richmond Union high school field last Saturday, while others have been chosen to represent Richmond in events not held at last week-end's tryouts.

The local Y. M. C. A. athletes will gather at the Richmond "Y" building at 12:30, and they will receive transportation to Oak'and.

Portland More Interested In Golf Than Vote

PORTLAND, Ore., May 16.—UP—It was primary election day in Oregon today but this golf-minded city seemed to be far more interested in the sensational victories of Dr. O. F. Willing and Don Moe—both of Portland—in the Walker Cup matches at Sandwich.

Newspaper offices were swamped with telephone calls for word of the matches. Excited groups gathered on street corners to talk over Moe's sparkling 67 that defeated J. A. Stout, 1 up.

Mrs. Carl Moe, mother of Don Moe, said: "It is marvelous" and added, "You bet, I'm proud of Don."

Mrs. O. F. Willing, wife of Dr. Willing, said she literally was "tickled to death."

Students at the University of Oregon at Eugene sent up a roasting cheer for Moe who is a sophomore in the law school there.

Memorial Game To Be Played Here On May 30

The first annual "Doe" Sawright Memorial game of the Richmond American Legion Junior baseball league will be played Memorial Day, May 30, on the First street baseball park.

The "game of the year" will be played between the Native Sons, champions of the Richmond circuit, and a squad composed of players selected from all other teams in the league.

More than 800 tickets have been already presented to donors to the league funds. Tickets are being sold by the box ball players and the La Moine Drug company, the Conn Drug company and the Speed Drug stores.

Plans for the games were laid at a recent meeting of league officials, including W. W. Scott, John A. Miller, J. E. Hill, F. C. Schallenger, George D. Minor, H. H. Zimmerman and H. R. Burt.

MIRAMAR GROUP HONORS MOTHERS AT MEETING

Mothers of Miramar chapter, Order of Eastern Star were honored by the other members last night, following a business meeting in the Masonic hall.

Mrs. Bertha Terry, worthy matron, and Louis Keading, worthy patron presided over the meeting.

The program was opened with a reading by Mrs. C. Baughman, and songs were rendered by Mrs. Florence Clarke, accompanied by Mrs. Fay Hislop, and Mrs. Clyde Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. Edith Ford.

Mrs. Wilson sang a piece entitled "Mother" which was composed by Mrs. Ford.

Following the program, a delicious banquet was served in the banquet hall by a committee consisting of Mrs. Etta McCoy, Mrs. Esther Self and Mrs. Ellis Paasch.

The tables were adorned with flowers, and at the plate of each mother was a corsage.

The chapter was visited last night by Mrs. Magie Schaefer, Miramar's first charter member, and believed to be one of the oldest living charter members of the lodge. The lodge was instituted in 1902, and Mrs. Schaefer recalled some of the early history of the chapter.

STAR MOTHERS ARRIVE IN FRANCE

CHERBOURG, May 16.—UP—Smiles, mingling with tears, 352 Gold Star mothers from America stepped on French soil today to be overwhelmed by the sympathy and friendliness of their welcome.

The pier was lined with French mothers and children waving the Stars and Stripes and the Tricolor of France. A wreath from the war mothers of France to those of America was presented to the Gold Star mothers by a war orphan, Mrs. Lydia Lindsay, of Cincinnati, the oldest mother on the tour, received it from the visitors.

Government and local officials met the mothers as the liner America docked, and conveyed them to a special train to take them directly to Paris, where they arrived at 10 p. m.

All the elderly travelers were well except Mrs. C. S. Smith, of Dephos, O., who, it was said, temporarily lost her memory under the strain and excitement of the voyage. She will be placed in the care of a nurse in Paris.

The pilgrims, mostly from Ohio on this first trip, will be shown over Paris — the same bright capital which beckoned to their soldier sons when leave was possible. Under the guidance of officers, they will make sight-seeing trips to Versailles, visiting the Palace of the Bourbons. Kings. They will see the table on which the allies and the Germans signed the treaty which ended 51 long months of war.

On Monday the party will divide and go by Pullman auto busses to the battlefields, each mother or widow going to the grave of her son or husband. She will be able to live in a hostess house at the cemetery, spending five or six days at the tomb. Then she may go to other cemeteries, where 30,000 other Americans lie buried.

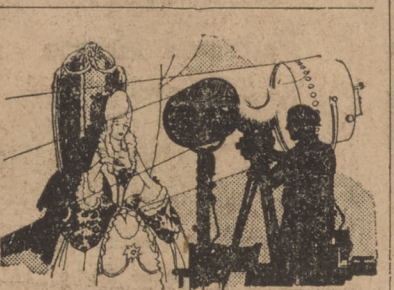

Another three days in Paris will follow the visit to the battlefield graves. This first group, starting the return journey on May 29, will sail on the steamer President Harding, which on May 22 will land the second group of mothers and widows.

There will be 16 groups during the summer, totaling 4,000 women, and for three years more, the pilgrims can come until every war widow or Gold Star mother will have had the opportunity to kneel beside the grave of a soldier to them not unknown.

Director Of Playgrounds To Be Named

W. T. Helms, superintendent of schools, is now engaged in selecting a city playground director to succeed the late W. L. Sawright. All applicants are out of town men with the exception of George L. Miner who has been acting as temporary playground director. Miner is a member of the Roosevelt junior high school faculty.

The position is a combination city and school job, and pays $300 a month.

A Cohen is always a Sidney, but a Kelly is several people. This condition was revealed when "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland," rollicking Irish-Jewish comedy, coming to the Fox California theatre, went into production at Universal City.

For the fourth time, George Sidney was Cohen and Vera Gordon was Mrs. Cohen. And for the fourth time Kate Price was Mrs. Kelly. But she found herself married again to her first husband in the "Cohens and Kellys" series, having been wedded to two other Kellys in the interim.

For Charlie Murray, the Kelly of the famous series, again appeared in the role of Kelly. In the second picture of "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," Miss Price had J. Farrell McDonald for a spouse. In "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," Mack Swain played the role.

"Which of the Kellys do I prefer for a screen husband?" repeated Miss Price in answer to a question. "It's poor taste for a woman to make comparisons between her husbands, past or present. Besides, it's impolite. I love all the Kellys."

In addition to the famous Cohen and Kelly quartet, the cast of "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" includes such well-known players as E. J. Ratcliffe, William Colvin and Lloyd Whitlock.

William James Craft, in charge of the "Cohens and Kellys" on their famous Atlantic City frolic, also directed their Scotland visit. The story was written by John McDermott and the dialogue by Albert DeMott.

F. W. Fort In Senate Race
Against Morrow

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—UP—A third candidate, a dry, today entered the race for the Republican Senatorial nomination in next month's primaries and once again the prohibition issue took first rank in announcement of a platform.

Franklin W. Fort, congressman, was the newcomer to the drive for votes, in which were already enlisted Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former senator. Fort had withheld his decision to seek the nomination until after Morrow had outlined his views on prohibition. The ambassador last night declared for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, and the return to the principle of state's rights.

Morrow's stand left the anti-saloon league without a candidate. The Rev. James K. Shields, state superintendent of the league, issued a statement commending Morrow for the clarity of his utterances, but adding that the dry organization "absolutely will not support his candidacy." It was generally supposed tonight that the league would throw its support to Fort.

Had Morrow and Frelinghuysen remained the sole candidates, the dry issue might have been thrust into the background because of the general similarity of their views. But with Fort's announcement that he is "opposed to any return of the sale of intoxicating liquors under any known or suggested form of law or regulation," it appeared certain that the dry law would serve as the focal point of a race likely to attract national attention.

VAUDEVILLE IN MOVIETONE

When a woman-hater falls, he falls hard. At least, that's the moral of "Nix On Dames" the sparkling Fox Movietone production which opens at the Fox California today.

A clever story, cleverly told—songs that are delightful in themselves as well as fitting the picture like a glove—one of the most competent and convincing casts in talking pictures—these are some of the features of this excellent piece of entertainment.

Two hard-boiled, but likeable acrobats, have sworn a life-long friendship that makes no provision for women. Their twelve year Damon & Pythias act, however, runs on the rocks when one of them breaks his shoulder and they have to move to an actor's boarding house, while he recuperates. There they meet two young damsels whose affections on their misogyny are remarkable. There is an unexpected but natural climax that gives a very real tug at the heartstrings, and that satisfactorily wings up a thoroughly worthwhile production.

While Mae Clarke has already made a name for herself in "big time" and Robert Ames has proven himself in a number of Fox films recently, several newcomers make their screen debut in this picture. William Harrigan, a son of the noted stage family of the same name, shares leading honors with these two, and proves an invaluable addition to the talking picture ranks. The well known vaudeville team of Wallace and McCormick, Camille Rovelto, concert pianist, George MacFarlane and other footlight celebrities do their parts more than adequately—in fact the entire cast appears to have been hand-picked. Donald Gallagher's direction is excellent, and the story by Maude Fulton, who also plays a role in the film, is absorbing and true to life.

WOMAN DIES IN AUTO FIRE

LIVERMORE, May 16.—UP—Overturning on the highway while traveling at a high rate of speed, an automobile caught fire today, and an unidentified Seattle woman was burned to death.

Her companion and driver of the car, E. C. Harwood, of Tacoma, continued to this city by stage, where he was held for questioning by police.

Harwood said he knew the woman only as "Frankie". He had met her at a party in San Francisco and was driving her back from the country where she had been visiting, he said.

His explanation of the fatal accident was that he had been driving almost steadily since Tuesday night, and that he believed he had fallen asleep at the wheel.

Elmer R. Cloyd, stage driver, who drove up at the time of the accident, endeavored to rescue the girl from the flames, but could not. He stated that the car had seemed to be traveling erratically for some time before it finally overturned and burst into flames.

A few fragments of papers in the girl's bag, indicated that she might have been from Seattle.

Harwood was held pending an inquest.

INSIDE FACTS ABOUT STUDIOS and PLAYERS

Be a star of grand opera and you loved to talk about themselves or anything else. Their conversation interfered with the dialogue of the picture so Barrymore ordered a fresh group of equines, all strangers to each other and the neighing which cut into the dramatic lines promptly stopped.

The hardest thing in the world is for a pair of motion picture comedians to put over their fun making in a "straight" picture. The Rogue Song is chuck full of tense drama, yet the antics of Laurel and Hardy, slap-stick comedians extraordinary, on horseback furnish side splitting relief in the gripping moments of the production.

Who ever heard of a star not having time for her "dear public"? Catherine Dale Owen hasn't. In the good old days as a shining luminary on the legitimate stage, there was always time for interviewers, feature writers and what not. All that is required if they didn't show up for the celebrity's message to the waiting world, she sent for them. But since making her debut on the talking screen, Miss Owen is having a terrible time to find enough hours in the day to accomplish all that is required. Cornered by your correspondent, she implored, "Please be brief. I simply haven't the time. I don't know where the hours fly. I'm always doing something."

The Shakedown
Tells Thrilling
Story Of Oil Men

A corking talking film opens at the Richmond theater today. It is "The Shakedown," a Universal offering, co-starring handsome young James Murray and adorable Barbara Kent. William Wyler directed it from a story by Charles A. Logie.

A good human story, plot twists that make for suspense and surprise, well modulated and forceful dialogue and a high type of acting combine to make this picture out of the ordinary. William Wyler proved his mettle as a director with "anybody Here Sen Kelly" in "The Shakedown" he shows even greater ability in handling human characters and in the deft, incidental touches that make a screen story appealing.

Murray plays the role of a young oil derrick rigger, enmeshed in a phoney fight racket. Barbara Kent is a waitress in an oil field lunch room. Their romance flowers in picturesque surroundings. How she helps him break away from the crooks that have him in tow, makes a stirring story, in which no small amount of interest is lent by a small boy, a wait of the oil fields, whom Murray has taken under his wing.

The dialogue sequences are well handled. Both Murray and Miss Kent have clear and appealing voices. Others in the cast also register well, including among them are George Koskornas, Wheeler Oakman, Harry Gibson and Little Jack Honlon.

Federal Aid For

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—UP—A decisive victory in the drive to sign members of the raisin and grape industry in the California Grape pool, success of which will assure aid from the Federal Farm Board, was made here tonight.

DRY BUREAU IN NORTH UNDER JURY PROBE

PORTLAND, Ore., May 16.—UP—The Pacific Northwest prohibition bureau came under the scrutiny of a federal grand jury investigation today.

United States Attorney Anthony Savage said the jury is considering charges of "bribery and corruption which have been made against certain federal officials." He added that the inquiry "will be careful, complete and fair as we can make it."

The first witness called was Al Hubbard, former member of the Roy Olmstead bootleg ring and later an employee of the prohibition enforcement office. He was in the grand jury room all morning and came out smiling. It was unofficially centered about the regime of Roy Olmstead, of asserted graft collections and "bush money."

Although Savage did not specifically mention it in his statement, it was learned that the inquiry centered about the regime of Roy C. Lyle, federal prohibition administrator of Oregon, Washington and Alaska.

Russell Jackson, former prohibition agent, and Matt Ryan, former U. S. customs agent, also have been summoned to appear along with other ex-aides of Lyle.

State wide committee engineering the campaign to sign 85 per cent of the raisin, table grape and juice grape industry, had predicted the drive would be virtually won if the packers agreed to the contracts.

The packers that designated approval of the contracts were the California Packing Corporation, Resenberg and Company, and Guggenheime and company.

Their representatives were in attendance at a meeting with the representatives of four big banks—The Bank of Italy, The Security First National of Los Angeles, The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Berkeley, and the Anglo-London-Paris Bank of San Francisco, M. J. Newhouse of the Federal Farm Board and members of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers Association of California, and Sun-Maid of Delaware.

VARIETY SHOW AT SCHOOL PRAISED

Students of Richmond Union high school danced, sang and acted before a crowd of more than 1000 at the annual high school variety show last night in the school auditorium.

Dancing, comedy, singing and acting followed in quick succession to entertain the appreciative audience that greeted the performance.

More than half a hundred high school pupils performed last night in front of gorgeous settings prepared by the art students of the high school.

The program commenced with "Flittermouse," a one-act farce. The cast included Louise Olsen, Ruby Doyle, Bernice Newford and Edwin Palmer.

Dancing Show.
Interpretive dancing was presented by the following girls: Priscilla Imbach, Laverne Patterson, Dorothy Boswell, Martha Brandan, Miriam Howard, Nellie McCauley, Jessie Olsen, Glenn Phillips Ruth Sheldon and Marian Swanson.

The humorous events that occurred in an old French castle inhabited by a modern French girl, furnished the theme for "Mademoiselle La Marquise," a one-act comedy. Jane Bellegarde occupied the role of the dainty "Suzanne" and the part of "Lucienne," her companion was taken by Elizabeth Whitney. The part of the fastidious hero was played by Walter Bradbury. Other members of the cast were Dorothy Lane and Gertrude Richards.

A music teacher, who mixed English and several European languages in an effort to further the cause of the art of music, occupied the center of attention in "The Music Master," a comedy skit.

Jatta Plays
The part of the music master was played by Herman Jatta. The supporting cast included: Eugene Selvy (the dog), Tony Silva, Christine Coleman, George Lindstedt, Bernard Hoefler, Edith Jakobson, Archie McVicker, Carl Angell, Ralph Shallenbarger, Jack Haase and Arthallus Ellison.

Accompanied music by Dominic Musso, Amelio Traverso and Alfred Cortopassi, won the appreciative applause of the audience between the fourth and fifth acts. "The Toy Shop," a fantasy of dancing dolls and wooden soldiers, concluded last night's program. The "Lonesome Little Doll" was presented by Lenora Brougham, toe dancer, while Mildred Lowell occupied the role of the rag doll in "Icky," a song and dance act. The "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" included the following dancers: Harriet Berry, Marguerite Russell, Aloha Prange, Doris Byrns, Freda McGregor, Jacqueline Armstrong, Rosalind Hillyer, Anita Chasseur, Dora Bartola, Morthy Ervin, Elthea Harlow and Roberta Hansen.

Band Plays
The "Dance of the Wooden Shoes" was attractively presented in Dutch costume by the following girls: Laverne Patterson, Dorothy Oswell, Bernice Spagnolia, Meta Strickling, Gladys Metz, Iva Zundel, Marion Honsinger, Claire Smith, Irene Rollino, Ada Zundel, Louise Mylne and Alma Year.

Flier Finds Buddy's Kin In Richmond

K. M. Richards, aeronautic inspector of the research department of the United States department of commerce, forced down in Richmond yesterday morning when the propeller of his plane shattered, utilized the opportunity to look up the mother of one of his war buddies who died in a hospital in Brest during the World War.

Through the aid of Dr. Lowell R. Sears, commander of the American Legion, Richards located Mrs. George Floyd, 636 Fifteenth street, the mother of William J. Brown of Richmond, a member of the 871st repair squadron of the army air service who died from wounds received in an air raid.

To Mrs. Floyd, Richards turned over personal effects of her son, which included his watch, some photographs and his last letter.

Richards was flying a Waco scout bombing plane from the east to the Pacific coast and was carrying mail from Salt Lake to San Francisco when he was forced down in Richmond.

Richards made a safe landing on the Santa Fe field which is sometimes used as an air field. A truck was sent from Mare Island Navy yard and removed the plane which was only slightly damaged.

Richards said he was bringing the plane west for delivery to Portland Ore., where it is to be used as a relief mail plane and also for the use of the reserve air force.

He said he had intended coming to Richmond but had not expected to "sit down" in the manner he had.

Richards was shot down over his lines during the World War, and occupied a cot next to Brown in the Brest hospital. When Brown developed pneumonia from a wound near the lungs, he gave Richards his personal effects to be turned over to his mother.

Boxer Hunted On Attack Charge

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—UP—Eddie Mack, prominent boxer, was sought tonight by local authorities to answer to a complaint charging him with assaulting 17-year old Marcela La Foose.

The district attorney's office issued the complaint at the request of the girl's parent who claimed Mack was intimate with her on three separate occasions.

When officers were unable to find the lightweight fighter here a fugitive warrant was issued for his arrest.

The parents of the La Foose girl contended that she met Mack on February 19, the night of her 17th birthday.

Subsequently he saw, and was intimate with her, on February 25, March 7 and March 21, the complaint alleged.

Police records show that the girl once was arrested and held in juvenile hall because of the disappearance of merchandise from a downtown store.

Accompanists for "The Toy Shop" were Marjorie Whittlesey and Lorraine Hunt. Music was provided during the entire performance by the Richmond Union high school band, under the direction of George Morris.

Y BOYS HOLD CAMP RALLY

Enthusiasm for the Richmond Y. M. C. A. camp of 1930 on the Russian river was aroused at a rally of new and old campers last night in the Richmond Y. M. C. A. building.

Reynold Carlson, camp director, presented a review of camp activities at Camp Pioneer, and spoke of the hikes and physical recreation enjoyed by the boys who attend this yearly outing.

George Harlow, devotional director of the camp for many years, addressed the boys on the enjoyment and character building recreation in which campers participate each year.

Weber Rites Here Monday

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon for Emil J. Weber from Curry's Funeral parlors under the auspices of the Elks lodge. On Sunday evening, a service will be read by Oakland Abrie of Eagles. Interment will be in Sunset View cemetery.

Weber was killed when his automobile was forced off the highway in the Santa Cruz mountains Wednesday.

Willie Hillier, tent leader and song leader at the camp.

An edition of the "Daily Boomerang" was read at last night's get-together by James Smith, former editor of the camp paper.

Following the talks and singing, the boys were served refreshments in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

More than 50 boys attended last night's annual camp rally.

Rotary Hears Dry Law Talk

Miss Mary Ashe Miller, nationally known newspaper woman, addressed the Richmond Rotary club on prohibition yesterday at the regular weekly meeting of the club.

Representatives of the Anti-Saloon league, and the women's organization were also scheduled to appear on the program, but failed to make an appearance.

Dr. C. S. Abbott was chairman of the day.

Driver Granted Year Probation

MARTINEZ, May 16.—Pleading guilty to a charge of hit and run driving before Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie, William Stewart, 38 one-legged candy store proprietor of San Francisco, was today granted one year's probation.

Stewart was charged with having struck down and left Henry Islicker, of Martinez, on Pacheco boulevard Monday night. Islicker was severely lacerated on the head and suffered concussion of the brain.

Stewart declared he did not know he had struck anyone, but glass particles found near the spot where Islicker was found, correspond with holes in the windshield of the car driven by Stewart.

S. O. CHEMIST WINS HONORS

Harold Gould Vesper, local Standard Oil company employee and medalist student at the University of California, has been named "The most distinguished member of the 1930 graduating class" and has been acclaimed in academic and student circles as an outstanding student.

Despite working eight hours a day at the local refinery to support his widowed mother, Vesper has maintained a practically straight "A" average as a student of chemistry.

Vesper was awarded the university gold medal at the commencement exercises this week.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Moores Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

"They Do These Things Differently in France"

Scene, the American home.
Time, after dinner.

Characters: Husband and Wife.

Husband (extracting a torn newspaper clipping from his pocket, parked there for the first convenient opportunity): Got something I want to read you, dear. Did you see that article in the paper about the court decision that a wife must obey her husband?

Wife (absent-mindedly, since she is making up the schedule of tables for her next bridge party): Why, I thought everybody left that out of the marriage service nowadays.

Husband (with restrained impatience): I didn't say anything about the service—I said the courts. If you didn't read about this case—I thought you said every intelligent woman looked through at least one paper every day—I'd better give you the gist of it. Really, it's very important. The Magistrate has just made a ruling in so many words that a wife must obey her husband.

Wife (hearing him for the first time and turning on him a gaze of mingled scorn and pity): Is—that—so? And who is the husband? And what's his wife got to do to obey him? And how does he think he'll make her?

Husband (stemming the torrent): He's a rich Chicago man named Nelson Morris. He married a woman named Jane Aubert, an actress. He says there was an agreement when they married that she shouldn't appear on the stage again. But she did. She—

Wife: Well, I don't know why she shouldn't. What man would give up his career just because he married? I should think her husband would have been proud of her for wanting to do something—that is, if she was any good as an actress. Anyhow, he knew she was one when he married her, and why didn't he pick a more domestic type, if that was what he wanted, instead of trying to change her afterwards? No woman's going to stand being dictated to!

Husband: But you don't get the point. She's had to stand it—the court has ordered her to obey her husband. It seems she didn't want to on the stage, and the management advertised that she was doing it "despite her husband's interdiction!"

Wife (interrupting again, but smiling): That was pretty smart of this management. I'll bet all the women went to see her, and I just know all the men did.

Husband (who feels that the issue is becoming hopelessly obscured): Well, the management has got itself into a nice mess. The court has ordered it to pay damages of $2,000 to Morris, the husband.

Wife (honestly puzzled): For heaven's sake, why?

Husband: Because, according to the judgment, the husband's marital authority was "daily flouted and ridiculed." The courts are giving women fair warning that they can't do this sort of thing and get away with it. Mrs. Morris has got to stop appearing in the show, or, if she doesn't, her manager'll have to pay her husband $120 a night, besides the $2,000.

Wife (indignantly): Why, the old crump! I thought you said he was rich!

Husband: He is, but you don't understand. Of course, he doesn't care for the money—it's the principle of the thing. He told his wife not to do something. She did it. Now she knows, and other wives know, that a man is master in his own house.

Wife (giving him a long, level glance): Will you kindly tell me where in the United States this remarkable court made its decision?

Husband (slightly taken aback): Well, it—it wasn't exactly in the United States. It—it happened to be in Paris, but the principle is the same.

Wife (pregnant): Yes? There is a slight pause, the kind that may easily become uncomfortable. The husband is still fingering his clipping. The wife has now turned her attention to refreshments for the coming bridge.

Wife (thinking aloud): Three kinds of sandwiches—that ought to be enough for cream in milk. Petting four. Tea and chocolate. Hard candies for the tables.

Husband (tentatively, despite a valiant effort to seem much to the contrary): To-morrow's the first day of the week, and if it's a good day I wish you'd have dinner an hour later. I thought I'd play some golf in the afternoon.

Wife (looking up sharply, the note of incredulity in her voice): John, you'd do no such thing. I've been waiting for days to have you get this house ready for the summer. The double windows in the living room have to come off. The screens have to be put on. You must hang three screen doors. The lawn ought to be mowed. We can't let the furnace go out yet, but the cellar needs a thorough cleaning. I think you'd better put the awning over the front porch and you'll have to help me hang those new curtains in the sun parlor. There may be some other things. I'm hanging a bridge next week, and in house must look right. You'll be working every minute from the time you get home from the office until

How to Plant the Evergreens

By Karin Broberg
Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WHEN planting evergreens dig the ground to the depth of fifteen inches. Then arrange the plants to the best advantage by placing the burlap-wrapped roots on top of the soil. Never remove the burlap covering until you are ready to place the plant in the ground. When digging the hole make certain that it is large enough to receive the whole ball of earth surrounding the roots.

An evergreen, if planted when its roots are dry, will not live. Nursery men, knowing this, have shipped the plants with sufficient soil about the roots to keep them moist. If when unwrapping the plant you find the earth to be a ball of good loam do not disturb it. If, on the other hand, you find the earth clay-like, it should be thoroughly soaked in water. A clay soil is apt to cake, which means that the roots will have a hard time to pierce through it. Should the ball of earth around the roots seem to be falling apart, set the plant in the hole with the burlap intact. After the plant is in place remove what is possible of the burlap. The larger and older the plant the more care must be exercised not to disturb the ball of earth. With very small plants this is not necessary.

Use only the finest and richest soil to fill in around the roots of the plants. Fill in the soil within three inches of the surface, then water the plant; after this fill in the rest of the soil without tramping it down. This method converts the top soil into a mulch. It is also well to give newly planted evergreens a top dressing of manure at least twice during their first summer. During the first month some growers advocate giving evergreens liquid manure two or three times.

Think It Over

By Alfa Smith

A WOMAN writes from Long Island to ask just how one starts to overcome poverty. She says: "Surely not by making a list of it."

The idea of putting down what you owe other people is making a start toward paying them. As a rule the person who owes a lot of money is the unaccountable object of a lot of hatred from those who cannot get their money. The idea is not only to put down what you owe, but begin paying a little every now and then and thus relieve yourself of the hatred directed towards you.

In order to overcome poverty, change your thinking. The woman seems to be AFRAID of something, for she does not sign her name. Poverty and FEAR are twins!

Silk Suits, Smart Version of Style, Have Their Distinct Mannerism

Five Distinct Designs Afford a Choice for Different Uses and Different Figures

Accessories That Make the New Type of Costume Distinctive for the Wearer

faunty, little tailored look about them. Perhaps their nicest feature is that there is so much variety in their making. They have capes—one, two or three—and the capes are of different lengths to suit different types. They have jackets ranging from the bolero to the fitted cardigan to the peplum with its fitted neckline. They have all sorts of varieties of lingerie accessories, and they have pleats and ruffles if you choose.

Five Distinct Designs

HERE is the Chanel silk suit for those who are very feminine in their tastes and expression. It is made of plain or printed heavy faille in the darker tones. A pleated flounce on the bottom of the coat almost meets a wider pleated flounce on the skirt. The whole appearance of this suit is that of a dress until the jacket is opened to disclose the lingerie blouse.

The silk suit with fitted neckline and peplum—also flared skirt—is most characteristic of the season. A stiff little ruffling at the neckline and a touch at the cuffs makes it one of the most popular of spring suits. It is nice in printed silk.

The bolero suit, with jacket dipped at the back if the figure is large. Here the blouse is the keynote. It is chiffon, silk or a handkerchief linen. Often the sleeves are bell shaped, showing puffy little blouse sleeves underneath. The buttoned cardigan silk suit—the one that is buttoned low at the front, giving a fitted hip line with jacket only finger tip length and bloused slightly. The waist may be what we used to call a "Dickey" (a vest) and is wonderfully wearable for those who must crash about strenuously in the course of their daily lives.

Silk Suit Accessories

FINISHING touches or the inevitable accessories for these lighter suits must keep in character or the effect can be a total loss. Keep the accompaniments light, too, though they must not be dressy. They are tailored still, but of less sturdy materials.

Preferably have a silk bag—faillie or crepe de chine for the more formal suits. It may be fine kid with crystal trimmings. But leave the patent leather and snakeskin for the more formal clothes.

Shoes, rather of kid than any other material. Don't make the mistake of having silk ones. Keep them dark for street wear—navy blue, black or brown.

Flowers are worn discreetly with all these silk suits. When placed at the waistline the bunch can be larger. This is a new style and smartly important. White violets and buttercups are smartest.

FOR TEA TIME OR BRIDGE—THE BOLERO SUIT WITH LINGERIE BLOUSE.

By Ann Roberts

AT one of the smartest of after-Easter teas some one grabbed my arm and said threateningly: "Where are all these long dresses? I don't see any." I looked about. She was right; but then I personally hadn't really promised her any longer dresses. She had gone forth and gathered her store of promises from goodness knows where, but she cherished them—as many do.

The fact of the matter was that at that party—and the same will be true of innumerable others—the silk suit with its straight around, full flared, or circular or pleated skirt and its tricky little dressmaker jacket (often rather not its added touch of springlike flowers on the shoulder or held under the belt directly in front) had the day. It has only begun a merry jaunt through the spring, which pace is bound to last well through the summer—even into the fall.

Fitted Silk Suit's Fitting Place

THE smartest of the snappy little silk suits are fitted or, rather, they follow closely, the figure's lines. They are for the younger and slimmer of the population—that fortunate class for dressing. By no means can they be said to take the place of the separate coat and silk dress which, when properly made, any one can wear.

The French designers have sent us many interesting types of this "little" silk suit. They are in plain, heavy silks, jacquards or faille, or they are done in printed silks with all-over small patterns. Dotted ones are numerous. They have the most

THE GREATEST TRAGEDY OF ALL

(With apologies to Martin Panzer and Mimi Baines)

You write poems That are published In a column in a newspaper with a huge circulation. And after the first wild bliss Of your success begins to simmer down To a pleasant consciousness of your poetic ability, You decide To "just strike off another."

But after hours Of alarmingly unproductive toil and typing You conclude to wait a while And try to learn some tricks of the trade.

You read Spenser and Shakespeare And Keats and Longfellow, And jam the type-bars of your typewriter In a temperamental fit. And in the end You are forced to the sad conclusion That the beautiful understanding That existed between the Muse and you Is undoubtedly dead.

And you weep While your feet return to earth And your head rests on your chest. Resume their natural proportions. BEVERLY LYNCH.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

GOLDEN DAWN

This story is based on Warner Bros. Vitaphone production of the play by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

SYNOPSIS
A rich, mysterious girl, is selected by the black tribe to be the virgin bride of their terrible god. She is chained all night to a spot in the jungle; next morning she will be sacred and inviolate. She loves and is loved by Tom Allen, plantation owner, who has overheard a secret that she is as white as himself. She, a brutish bully, with sinister designs on Dawn, plans to execute them while she is chained in the ritual. Tom and Shep have a terrific fist and whip fight, with Tom victor. He implores Dawn to be his. Back in camp, Shep, badly bruised, conceals a story to Captain Eric that Tom had slain Dawn, and attacked him.

INSTALLMENT FIFTEEN
When sunrise flooded the jungle clearing it found Dawn again chained in symbolic enslavement to Malahua. Her first thought was of Tom. When he had left her in the darkness he had promised to remain nearby through the night. He had laughed away her warnings that he might be found by early arriving natives.

The sleepless vigil together with the other anxieties of the night left her quite exhausted. She longed for companionship, above all the companionship of Tom. Her eyes ranged the clearing, but Tom tried to convince herself that Tom had sought refuge in the jungle, she was unable to free herself of a feeling that he had proceeded to

Tom addressed his words to Blink, but looked steadily at Shep as he spoke. "I'll willingly submit arrest to you, Blink, but if this detail is commanded by anybody else I'll resist capture with my last drop of blood."

All turned to Shep, awaiting his reply to the challenge. His instinctive impulse to take advantage of his power to club Tom to death died under the steady glare of the Englishman. He shrugged in the manner of a man making a magnificent gesture.

"I yields de command to you, Blink," he said. "Ise interested in carryin' out de captain's orders, dat's all."

Though it seemed much the wiser way out of a ticklish situation Blink hesitated to take command. "After all," he protested to Tom, "how am I goin' to look draggins you, a prisoner, Tom. War is war, I know, but I ain't captin my best friend for any government."

To make his defeat as inglorious as possible, Shep divided the guard, assigning two to himself and two to Blink. "We've got de things de go," he commented, with a feeble flash of bravado, "you take de prisoner in, Blink."

As Shep and his Askari detail started off Tom took his station between Blink's guards. "All right, Blink," he said gaily, "let's get on. You'll be a hero—bringing the dangerous prisoner to justice right out in broad daylight."

"I wish I had a mask to wear," grumbled Blink.

There was high excitement at German Military Headquarters. Captain Eric had selected the ten prisoners to be returned to England, and their cheery songs of home mingled with the curses of those who were doomed to remain behind. In the barracks the fortunate ten stood, their kits packed, awaiting morning orders.

"Any messages for de gals around Buckingham Palace?" called a grinning youth to a sour-faced fellow who had hoped that his tale of a mythical lion in Kent would speed his release.

"I say," exclaimed the exuberant Duke, "I can just see myself taking a jolly pot at those grouse in Sussex."

"I hope a grouse kicks you in the belly," said another of the disappointed group with inelegant fervency.

"For that you don't get the picture post card showing me striding in the Strand," returned Duke. "Achtung!" At the German officer's command, the men came smartly to attention, and in two squads of five men each, trooped out of the barracks. They broke ranks in front of the Headquarters building just as Blink brought Tom in with the two Askari guards. These two relaxed their vigilance at a word from Blink, and Tom dropped into a chair on the veranda.

When Eric emerged with Blink, Tom rose and saluted. He ventured a friendly smile, but Eric's brisk formality discouraged him.

"A fine mess you've acted on," Eric began severely.

"Since you doubtless are on 'Shep's story,' answered Tom, "I think perhaps you'd like to hear mine."

The muscles of Eric's face tightened. "There's only one thing I want to hear," he said impersonally. "It is true that you saw Dawn last night?"

Coolidges Move Into New Home

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 16. UP—The Coolidges—former President Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge—today began the task of moving into their recently acquired $50,000 home, "The Beeches."

Two van loads of furniture and household articles—one from their modest duplex apartment on Massachusetts street and the other from a storehouse were transferred to their new place of abode on the outskirts of the city.

On the first trip, the moving men took an electric Baby Grand piano, furniture, and souvenirs presented Coolidge while in the White House, from Gleason Brothers' storehouse on Pearl street.

The remainder of Coolidge's belongings, all of which are contained in the house he occupied when elected president of the United States, will be moved tomorrow. Coolidge assisted the moving men during the afternoon, giving them instructions as to which articles were to be transferred today. The job of moving the former president was given to Michael J. Gleason, a neighbor.

Dance Enters Fiftieth Hour

At 12 o'clock last night, dancers entered in the Marathon Vaudeville in El Cerrito, sponsored by the American Legion post No. 340 had completed 49 hours of practically continuous dancing, and were entering the 50th hour with an occasional bluster and many mournful glances at the dressing room when they are allowed to sleep 15 minutes of every hour.

Although numerous pairs of shoes have been discarded by the contestants, the majority of the dancers seemed in good condition last night, and indications were seen that the marathon might outlast the recent contest in El Cerrito.

Until last night, surprisingly few dancers had dropped out, the majority of them conserving their strength by slow and placid movements.

The interior of the large canvas tent where benches have been erected for the spectators, has been constantly thronged by customers, indicating a huge success for the Legion.

note to have analogies for, we can contrast best those things which have full likeness and differences.

"To us of the federation might well come to mind first in contrast with the time when we were first organized. We have passed through a third of a century. Since then at that time the United States has abandoned its previous policy of isolation, and is becoming an imperialist nation with far-flung possessions and alliances. From an almost wholly rural people we are becoming increasingly urban under a rapid industrial development. And women too, having had much of the work which had been their taken out of the home and industrialized by men, were, for the first time, in large numbers having some leisure."

Women Progress

"And so today, as we look back, I believe we must feel that women have progressed. The increased release of ever greater number of woman from drudgery within the home is still leading us more and more to activities outside. And we realize that in order to understand today's home, we must know something of the life without. And who shall say that the home of today is not more interesting because women's interests are broader, because she is more alert, more socially aware, more interested in human activity. Can we not truthfully say that today we have not only great release, physical transportation than in 1900, but that the transportation of ideas is also better."

"Then, I think, we may contrast today with that period 1918—the day of the war. Then all of us were conserving food, trying to be thrifty as never before, wearing old clothing as a badge of honor. Some of us went out to do work that men left when they went to the front, while we gave our own to the nation's service. The war was over mercifully soon for us but have we today learned its lesson? Are we now able to demand truth rather than propaganda? Are we willing to study to understand the different angles of our great policies and to do all in our power to reach wise conclusions? Are we willing to study peoples and races of other nations and try to understand their views or are we led merely by the propaganda which those with personal interest wish us to believe?"

"In Alameda district we are trying to get many points of view. I would venture to say that nowhere are women studying and training themselves in sympathetic understanding of other peoples and their problems more than in Alameda county."

No War

"Again women are thinking today very differently from the way they did 12 years ago. An example of this changed thought is given by Genevieve Parkhurst in a review of a luncheon given by the foreign ministry of Germany. Opposite her sat a man of the old royalist regime who expressed his deep resentment over the occupation of border territory, remarking, 'In the next war Germany shall have her day.'"

"No one spoke among the men but a woman, a natural leader, declared: 'We shall have no more war. Baron, the women of Germany will not permit it. Do you hear me? We will have no more war.'"

"Have we been hurt enough by the war. Have we enough political acumen to know that we can and must as women stand together for the good of all mankind in that halcyon tomorrow to follow this today?"

Rustler Suspect Granted Delay

Ray, Ariz., May 16.—UP—Ed Mitchell, 37, alleged cattle rustler, who held a large posse at bay in a mountain fortress for 24 hours, when they sought to arrest him appeared in court here today and was granted the request that his hearing be delayed until Monday.

MORE ARRESTS IN 'REVOLT'

BOMBAY, May 16.—UP—Whole-sale arrests at the Dharasana salt depot tonight followed the passive resistance of the police against Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, civil disobedience leader in her "raid."

The authorities rounded up 224 volunteers in a charge of unlawful assembly.

Mrs. Naidu, removed by the police, finally admitted her mission had failed. She said she planned to return to Bombay in a few days.

"Having led the first batch against the government's salt depot," she said sadly, "there's nothing more for me to do now."

The arrests tonight followed proof that the gentle effect of feminine leadership on India's uprisings against British rule had failed to prevent the Nationalists from fighting with the police as the Dharasana salt raid ended.

Noted Beauty Hurt In Crash

VISALIA, May 16.—UP—Mrs. Irvin Keeler, divorced wife of a San Francisco hotel broker, and winner of the 1925 International Beauty Contest at Galveston, Texas, was injured last night in an automobile accident, it was learned today.

Mrs. Keeler, with Miss Patsy McGowan, San Francisco society girl, was recovering from cuts and bruises here, after her machine was forced from the Golden Gate highway by a truck and overturned.

Neither she nor her companion were seriously injured.

The two women were on their way to Los Angeles.

California is building a great state university as a part of the parent university of California at Los Angeles.

"Full House" To Be Presented Here Tonight

Everything is now in readiness for the presentation of "A Full House" to be given at the Roosevelt junior high school auditorium tonight by the Little Theater club, composed entirely of local talent.

Gervase C. Browne, who directed the production of "Stray Cats" last fall, is also directing "A Full House."

Madge Turner is playing Daphne Charters, the leading lady; Ned Pembroke Jr., the juvenile lead is being played by Allen Moore; Susie is enacted by Bertha Thomas; Nicholas King, the crook is being acted by Clarence Brown and Howard Sprague is playing the part of the young lawyer.

Parks, the English butler, is being enacted by Walter Moore; Ottilie Howell is portrayed by Edna Moore; Belle Woodford is enacting the aunt Miss Winnecker; Ruby Black portrays Vera Vernon, a designing actress; Helen Maxwell portrays Mrs. Fleming, owner of the apartment; Mary Marchiondo takes the part of Mrs. Ned Pembroke Sr., and Clara Thomas, Melvin Sprague and Leslie Ferguson take the parts of policemen.

Flood Threatens Western Town

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 16.—UP—Hundreds of persons are employed tonight in attempting to curb rivers and streams of Oklahoma, which have left their banks and are menacing many sections of the state.

Many were employed in aiding stricken families and in removing household goods and livestock from flood menaced areas as further rain was expected. The relief work was made difficult because the majority of the highways and railroad lines had become impassable.

POLICE AID IN SEARCH FOR JUDGE

angle that police were checking last night.

The only clue that police had last night to work on was the report of Mrs. C. L. DeGris, of Oakland, who declared she saw a man answering to Eng's description walking in the hills near the old reservoir of the East Bay Water company, about a mile northeast of the Eng home.

The judge was last seen by his wife, who told police she was seated beside his bed late Thursday night, nursing him, as he was feeling badly after his day in court.

Awoke From Sleep

Early in the morning, after Eng had fallen asleep, she was so tired she lay beside him and dozed off to sleep, Mrs. Eng said. When she awakened yesterday morning her husband was gone, but she did not worry, she said, as she believed he had gone on his customary morning walk.

When he did not appear for court, however, police were summoned.

Austro-American Society To Hold Picnic June 24

June 29 has been set as the date for the Austrian-American Benevolence Society picnic to be held at the East Shore park, according to an announcement yesterday.

The picnic will be held in conjunction by lodges from Richmond, San Francisco and Oakland.

The committee in charge of the picnic is composed of John Sindich, chairman; Mike Mikac, A. Brajkovich, B. S. Clatch, Jack Bazzal, P. Vidar and Tony Srinisch.
